GENERAL NEWS.

Charles Francis Adams' Bunko Swindler Brought to Justice.

RACKET OF THE RAILROADS.

Success of the Chicago Musical Festival—Presbyterian General Assembly Notes—Crop Reports from the Mississippi Valley.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

New York, May 25.—Boston specials in giving the announcement of the beginning of the trial of the bunko steerers who victimized Charles Francis Adams have the following confession of the chief scoundrel made some time since. The fellow very coolly said: "I guess there is no man in the United States who has done more at this business and who has been more successful. I have studied the business from top to bottom. I study the habits of victims and ingratiate myself into their good graces. I watched Adams [illegible] and finally met him coming from his house one morning and got into conversation with him. Adams has the reputation of being very unsociable, but I didn't have any trouble at all, you see. When we get a man to talking the rest is easy enough." The swindler said he introduced himself as an old friend and that he [illegible] and obtained permission of Adams to accompany him. They walked down Mount Vernon street and Morrison changed the subject and produced a lottery ticket upon which he said he had drawn a prize, requesting Adams to go in and identify him. Adams went in and the prize was paid. Morrison called the attention of Adams to a fascinating game and asked him to watch him and finally to take a hand in it. Adams after some persuasion took a hand at the game and at first was winner, but was required to give his checks for $[illegible] and $1000 to pay the bank ten per cent of his winnings. Adams then lost heavily and gave his check for $17,500. Then to frighten the old gentleman the thieves accused him of gambling, when he held up his hands and exclaimed: "Nothing was ever brought against my character; oh! what would my boys say to hear of such a thing?" Adams was too much agitated and overcome to write all checks and this was done for him by Fitzgerald. The scoundrel boldly dared John Quincy Adams to stop payment of the check and make the matter public, and boasted of other public men whom he had beguiled into his den, naming a Portland bank president who lost $1200. Adams while on the witness stand testified as to the habits of his father and his mental inability to transact business. The case is adjourned until Thursday. The course pursued by John Quincy Adams in bringing this scoundrel to justice is approved by all as manly and sensible.

The Arkansas Overflow.

Little Rock, May 25.—Gen. Mangrum, state agent for distribution of supplies on the Arkansas side of the Mississippi river during the late overflow, writes Gov. Churchill that the second overflow was nearly as disastrous as the first. He says that more than three-fourths of the tillable bottom land of Phillips county is now under water, with no prospect of being out before the last of June. His information is that Desha county is about in the same condition, also a portion of Lee, Monroe and Crittenden counties. Suffering among the laborers in these counties will be greater than ever known. They are nearly all out of [illegible] with nothing, and no means of obtaining the absolute necessities of life. No merchant or planter will advance for them, as all hopes of making a crop are gone. They are willing to work, but there is no work for them, as planters affected by water have all the labor they want. Gen. Mangrum concludes: "If the general government will rebuild the levees at once negroes can get work on them, so that they can support themselves and families. If the government don't feed them until they can get work, I fear many will starve. The condition of the people is now alarming. I don't know what can be done for them except through the general government. Intercede for them and do what you can with the general government."

Railroad Matters.

Chicago, May 25.—The commission appointed by the government to examine into the claim, by the Illinois Central railroad, to a strip of land 100 feet wide along the entire lake front, in addition to the amount conceded the company, met and looked over the ground to-day, and to-morrow will hear statements in the matter by railroad officials and citizens who are interested.

New York, May 25.—A meeting of general passenger and ticket agents was held to-day at Commissioner Fink's office, to ratify the pooling contract of roads west of the western trunk lines. Commissioner Fink said there were 40 companies in the pool and 16 companies had signed the contract. Three refused to sign. The meeting will be continued to-morrow.

Burlington, Ia., May 25.—The first train over the new Denver extension of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, a freight, left here this morning.

After the James Gang.

New York, May 25.—It has been ascertained from a member of Gov. Crittenden's party in this city that on his return to Missouri he will conclude negotiations for the surrender of Frank James and possibly other members of the James gang. Frank James is now in Jackson county, and instead of meditating more mischief is represented as being anxious to make the best terms possible for himself. Gov. Crittenden is fully informed as to his whereabouts, and means to have him in custody inside of ten days. It is asserted the whole James gang will be broken up. Plans are all laid, and only await the governor's return for execution.

Chicago's Festival.

Chicago, May 25.—Over 5000 people were present at the first matinee concert of the May festival, in spite of the continuous rain. Cary was sick and did not appear. Campanini made the hit of the afternoon, his lightest tones being audible in every part of the hall. About the same number of people assembled at the evening performance to listen to the sublime melody of Handel's "Messiah." The honors of the evening rested chiefly with the chorus, which sang as one person.

Presbyterians in Council.

Chicago, May 25.—The Presbyterian general assembly heard the report from the standing committee on foreign missions urging the necessity of raising $100,000 in the coming year. Judge Strong, Dr. [illegible], Dr. John L. Nevyns, of China, and Rev. [illegible] Thackwell, of India, made addresses. It was suggested that the churches increase the annual income of the board to $1,000,000 as speedily as possible, and it was said that this would be done in a few years. It was decided to raise $30,000 to send out thirty young foreign missionaries.

Extreme Cold Weather.

Wilmington, N. C., May 25.—Capt. Caldwell, who has just returned here from Balsam mountain in the western part of the state, says when he got into the valley of the mountain he was overtaken by a heavy snow storm, which had been falling all night. He was lost in drifts and only got out after a hard struggle and was nearly frozen. Balsam mountain is on the line between North Carolina and South Carolina. The thermometer stood at 35 deg. there when Caldwell left.

A Railroad Scheme.

Chicago, May 25.—Officers of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railroad company, operating 500 miles in Texas, are here conferring with the Chicago and Alton road officials and have submitted a proposal that the latter extend their line from Kansas City to the northern boundary of the Indian territory, and that the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe extend its line from Fort Worth to the southern boundary of the Indian territory, and that the two interests unite in a third company and build a line across one hundred miles west of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, each road to bear half the expense.

A Political "Shake-up."

New York, May 25.—A Times' Washington correspondent says: It is rumored that politicians are soon to be aroused by a sort of "shake-up" from New York city to Buffalo. It is impossible at present to ascertain whether the sweep of officers is to be so clean as to include all who are suspected of lukewarmness towards the administration or whether the postoffice in New York is marked as one of the places to be reformed.

A Valuable Judgment.

Dallas, Tex., May 25.—The supreme court has decided the suit of the Grigsby heirs against about 300 citizens of Dallas, to recover some 3000 acres of land in the city and county, which belonged to what is known as the Grigsby survey. The decision is in favor of the heirs and gives them the property with improvements, valued at nearly two millions.

A Terrible Vengeance.

Columbus, Tex., May 25.—Daniel Cannon, a colored preacher, returning after four years' absence and finding his wife with a young baby, investigated the facts and split her head open with an ax. He then laid the child on the floor and chopped its head off. There are threats of lynching. Cannon is in custody.

A Resolution of Merit.

New York, May 25.—The Home Mission Society adopted a resolution earnestly and solemnly calling on congress to fulfill the treaty with Indians, thus averting the shame and horror of a massacre of white citizens by men whom a sense of injustice has made mad.

Criminal Matters.

New Haven, May 25.—Testimony in the Malley trial to-day was leveled at the character of Jennie Cramer. One witness testified that during the reported spree of the Malleys, Jennie and Blanche Douglass, Jennie used the expression "My God! I'm paralyzed."

A Wordy Warfare.

Detroit, May 25.—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union state convention voted to-day in favor of action looking towards female suffrage by a vote of [illegible], after a spirited and almost heated discussion.

A Girl Missing.

St. Louis, May 25.—T. A. Watkins, of Denver, is now here searching for his missing daughter. He offers five hundred dollars for her dead or alive and no questions asked.

A Fatal Fight.

Columbia, Ala., May 25.—Peter [illegible] Thomas and Jason G. Jones, prominent citizens of this place, fought with knives [illegible] Jones was killed.

The senate [illegible] Slater reported from the [illegible] the original bill appropriating [illegible] Mrs. A. Boddy [illegible] county, Oregon, [illegible] the Modoc Indian [illegible] Indian depredations [illegible] result [illegible] troops [illegible] was [illegible] to the calendar.

Dorsey gives Bail.

Ex-Senator Dorsey gave bail in the sum of [illegible]. Mackey publishes a statement to-day claiming that he was really [illegible] but [illegible] of his rights by the democrats.

Congressional Notes.

The republicans are [illegible] to-night yesterday by devoting four hours on the question allowing a [illegible] Mackey case. [illegible] talk was very convincing and destroyed democratic grounds for filibustering. [illegible] is making an excellent record for himself, showing the ability and excellent self-control, and is spoken of as the coming man for speaker of the next house. Fulkerson, Virginia readjuster, who has been working with the democrats, to-day voted with the republicans and it is understood he will do so in case of future filibustering. On the motion to adjourn 148 voted no and 1 aye, showing the republicans have a quorum. Muldrow, of Mississippi, who had voted with the republicans for the purpose of having the right to move to reconsider, made a motion to that effect and demanded yeas and nays. Filibustering still progresses.

Pay Inspector Joseph A. Smith will be appointed chief of the bureau of provisions and clothing with rank of pay of paymaster general of the navy.

Admiral S. C. Rowan will be appointed superintendent of the naval observatory vice Rear Admiral Rodgers, deceased.

Lieut. Flipper's Case.

The president is still considering the court martial case of Flipper, the colored officer in the army, and it will probably modify the finding of the court martial so as not to dismiss Flipper.

The President goes to New York.

The president goes to New York Friday with Secretary Folger and will attend decoration day services with Secretary Lincoln and Gen. Brewster, and will also go to West Point.

Dead.

[illegible] D. Ramsay, U. S. A., retired list, is dead.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

Parliamentary Proceedings.

London, May 25.—In the commons to-day Forster denied that the government negotiated with suspects clandestinely to hinder debate on the repression bill.

Gladstone severely denounced Dillon for endorsing outrages by refusing to assist the government in carrying the bill.

Dillon declared he had always denounced the outrages.

Gladstone replied that barriers to illegality were responsible for the consequences.

Dillon affirmed that Gladstone had declared boycotting legal and evictions were more culpable than outrages.

Gladstone spoke with great passion. He said the Irish must confine themselves to agitating for changes in the land law, as whatever they may desire by means respecting private judgment and liberty of the people. In regard to the objection of Irish judges to the suppression of juries he declared if parliament were to allow judges to interfere in framing the bill they would abandon one of the most important functions of government. An institution of special tribunal is necessary, but that question can be discussed in committee. No good could come of a prolonged discussion unless it was the intention of some members to exasperate animosity between England and Ireland. He beseeched the house not to obstruct the bill.

Ritchie, conservative member for Tower Hamlets, stated that he would not vote for the bill.

Northcote said he regretted this intention. Whatever fault might be found with the government's Irish policy, conservatives ought to give a solid vote for the bill in the interests of peace and order.

O'Donnell, home rule member for Dungarvan, denounced the bill. The Irish, he said, ought never to rest until the administration of Ireland is free from British interference.

Debate on the motion to go into committee on the repression bill, was again adjourned on motion of Parnell.

The utterance of Dillon, which provoked Gladstone's attack, implied that evictions were more culpable than outrages.

Aid for the Hebrews.

St. Petersburg, May 25.—Gen. Drenteln, governor of Kief, has issued a proclamation to the inhabitants of Balta declaring the authors and instigators of Jewish outrages will be tried by court martial and if the police are insufficient to prevent outrages the military will be used. The chief of the Balta police has assured Jews of immediate repression of all attempts at outrages.

Foreign Notes.

The Official Messenger at St. Petersburg announces that the government has resolved to punish inexorably all outrages against the persons and property of Jews.

Four hundred houses belonging to Jews were recently burned at Vasilitchki.

Agrarian agitation in the Baltic provinces is increasing and peasants in Parnau have now revolted.

At Epsom the race for the Royal stakes was won by Limestone, Silver Bell second, Passaic third. Eleven ran.

The English and French ambassadors have again assured the porte that England and France have no idea of any radical intervention in Egypt, but are simply considering the best means of insuring order.

A letter from Davitt to Rev. Father Nulty, bishop of Meath, violently denouncing landlords and demanding home rule, has been published. Bishop Nulty read the letter to the assembled clergy in his diocese, who received it with enthusiastic applause.

POLITICAL NEWS.

The Pennsylvania Independents Open the Anti-Cameron Campaign.

A STIRRING PLATFORM ADOPTED.

Their Action Meets with General Approval from Opponents of the Spoils System—Political Points.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

Philadelphia, May 25.—The independent republican convention [illegible] A new [illegible] Wayne MacVeagh [illegible] the [illegible].

In calling the convention to order Dr. [illegible], chairman of the committee, said: Gentlemen, let us here resolve that we will be a grand old party, where the immortal Lincoln left it and the immortal Garfield left it.

Chas. Wolfe was made temporary chairman of the organization and Senator Stewart, chairman of the resolutions committee. [illegible] was made permanent chairman with a vice president from each senatorial district. During the course of his remarks he asserted that the death of President Garfield was chargeable directly to the spoils system, and spoke of the political power of the state as nothing which he had [illegible] from father to son.

Two years who preceded at the regular republican convention occupied a seat in the platform. When the convention was called to order, prayer was offered by Rev. D. C. Babcock, the noted prohibitionist and secretary of the Pennsylvania State Temperance association. U. S. Senator Mitchell was chosen temporary chairman by a decisive vote amid cheers and applause. Mitchell returned thanks for the honor conferred and said the work of the convention was not to nominate a ticket that would help the democratic party or defeat the republican party but to nominate one that would receive the respect and support of the republican party. (Applause.) This country had been founded upon principles which secured equal rights to all men, and on the spot where these principles were declared the republican party was founded, and he trusted that no atmosphere of this state would be made too fresh to be breathed by any republican, either in the state politically or otherwise. (Applause.) There must in the order of things be leaders, but not bosses. (Applause.) It would be well for the convention to declare against this system and against bossism and machinism and not only to declare against them, but provide a remedy that would tear them up root and branch. (Applause.) The only effective remedy will be found in the civil service system. (Applause.) The speaker would be glad to be able to stand before the convention and declare his desire to support the administration. The president might be disposed to enforce the true system but he was sorry to say that there was yet no indication of such determination on the president's part. With the power to appoint to places of minor importance taken out of the hands of politicians and made on the test of fitness alone there would be fewer leaders ready to take bread from the children of some poor but capable man to give his place to some mere politician. Senator Mitchell said he spoke with sorrow when he asserted that what had been achieved at Chicago, had not been borne out by the present administration. In all that the movement meant that placed Garfield in the presidential chair, the speaker had sympathized. He trusted the representatives present were assembled to show what they could do to serve the republican party and to protest against the methods by which it had been managed, and to say to the people of this country by the voice of a body actuated by a desire for the good of the republic that the party shall rid itself of harm from all the murky, corrupting sphere by which she had been surrounded (applause) to show the republican party was a progressive party composed of free thinkers, men and one that cannot be run as a railroad train, and by conductors, to the political emolument of any man.

The roll of delegates was called, and when the name of Chas. S. Wolfe was called, it elicited cordial and protracted applause. Senator Mitchell requested Wolfe to come forward. Wolfe in response arose in his place and after bowing to the chair and to the convention said: Mr. President and gentlemen of the convention: I am here. (renewed applause.)

The Platform.

Following is the platform: The republicans of Pennsylvania who will not surrender their political rights and who will maintain and exercise their own conscience and judgment concerning public affairs, having assembled in state convention, make the following declaration of principles and purposes:

First—We declare our attachment to principles of the republican party: freedom, union, nationality, equal rights before the law, protection of public wealth and protection to home industry and we demand that the record which has been so nobly made shall be wisely and fearlessly perpetuated.

Second—We declare that the nomination and election of James A. Garfield to the presidency signified to us a triumph of true reform in the civil service and enlarged liberty of action for the masses of the republican party in nominating candidates and conducting their party affairs and we deplore the overwhelming evidence presented to us in Pennsylvania that the calamity of his assassination has been followed by the overthrow of these reforms in the hands of his successor.

Third—We denounce the system which makes patronage and spoils out of public offices. We denounce the practice of giving them to political managers for use in advancing personal and political ends, we denounce the removal of faithful and competent officers in the absence of public reason. We denounce the practice of levying assessments and demanding contributions for party use from public officials, we denounce severally and collectively the evils and corruption which accompany the conduct of the government as a spoils system, and which are inseparable from such method of administration and we denounce the system of boss rule and "machine control," which when tamely endured makes leaders into autocrats and reduces the mass of citizenship to political bondage.

Fourth—We declare our purpose to build up the work which fell when Garfield fell. We demand in place of the spoils system the reformation of civil service by law, so that appointment to places therein may be freely open to all fit and industrious citizens, and removals therefrom shall be only for good and sufficient public cause. We demand instead of prostitution of the public service to private use its recognition as a high and honorable trust to be administered for the people's benefit with efficiency, economy and integrity. We demand instead of the local use, the proscription and tyranny of bossism and machinism the free and conscientious exercise of private judgment in political affairs, and a faithful discharge by those who assume representative trusts of the expressed will of the people.

Fifth—We declare in favor of the following party reforms: That delegates to state conventions be chosen by the people in the manner in which candidates for the general assembly are nominated; that representation in the state convention be by counties, and apportioned according to their republican vote; that state conventions shall not be held without at least sixty days notice; in presidential years, that the republican candidate for president at the [illegible] in the choice of delegates to the state or national conventions.

The Nominations.

Philadelphia, May 25.—The following nominations were made: For lieutenant governor, Levi Bird Duff, of Allegheny; secretary of internal affairs, Major Merrick, of Tioga; congressman at large, Geo. Wm. McMichael; judge of supreme court, [illegible] Junkin. Senator Stewart, nominee for governor, being called upon, said he accepted the nomination. The movement in which he and those before him were interested was not what its adversaries termed it, but was an honest movement in a public way for public ends and public approval. It was a rebellion, and Philadelphia was the place to inaugurate it. We want no party to dissemble. The honest convictions of the republicans of Pennsylvania have not found a chance to express themselves in any real convention held in the last decade. It is from the control of her last task master that we would deliver her. They tell us this movement will imperil the life of the republican party. I do not believe it. The republican party was in peril until you came to her rescue. Speaking for myself, I must say that if that noble party must die I had rather see her last hours made glorious by a struggle to redeem her than see her expire in the race for spoils.

A resolution, calling upon the legislature to submit to a popular vote the proposed amendment to the state constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in this commonwealth was adopted by a large majority.

Col. Duff, of Pittsburg, nominee for lieutenant governor, then spoke. He would accept it as he regarded the convention as that of the republican party. By the blunder made at Chicago in giving the minority the vice presidency and by the accident of Garfield's death the minority had obtained the power of government, and that faction is using that power for its own purposes. The speaker intended to stay with the party and be in no doubt what it is to be party.

Merrick, Wolfe and Mapes followed and the convention adjourned sine die.

Backing for the Independents.

New York, May 25.—The Times editorially on [illegible] the republican [illegible] Pennsylvania saying: The independents have their vision fixed on the [illegible] goal, but for the Cameronians there is no hereafter. Let Don Cameron's [illegible] be routed next November and they can never be rallied again, but the republican party will survive and independent [illegible] Mitchell and his associates [illegible] the republican party [illegible] than a Cameron or anti-Cameron fight [illegible] than the spoils of Pennsylvania [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] that in the present state of exasperation against family rule among the voters of Pennsylvania it would receive two republican votes for every one cast for the Cameron ticket.

DANGER OF RIDING TEXAS PONIES.

Great Excitement on Montgomery Street—A Happy Thought and a Happy Man.

San Francisco Evening Post.

It is not a thing of [illegible] that the [illegible] certain [illegible] under [illegible] only known in the Texas bucking [illegible] cultivate the pony [illegible] It is in his [illegible] the power [illegible] with [illegible] than [illegible] always a [illegible] opportunity [illegible] is a part of his life and the [illegible] In short [illegible] Texas pony at all. He is a [illegible] and unworthy to [illegible] the Lone Star [illegible]. Mr. George Ridgway, residing on [illegible] street, Oakland, will probably [illegible] at any rate [illegible] this morning [illegible] Mr. Ridgway [illegible] death [illegible] this gentleman was finished [illegible] on Montgomery street at a very rapid pace. When opposite [illegible] restaurant, popularly known as [illegible] Mr. Ridgway suddenly [illegible] to which [illegible] the wily [illegible] Mr. Ridgway [illegible] and then a struggle for the mastery between horse and rider. [illegible] the pony finally prepared a coup d'état and won the victory. Jumping into the air the devilish creature [illegible] his huge [illegible] came down [illegible] and the act was complete. Mr. Ridgway struck the ground [illegible] He was [illegible] A large crowd of excited people was attracted to the spot. Kind hands tenderly lifted the [illegible] into Frank's [illegible] was [illegible] for a [illegible] and [illegible] means known to those present resorted to for his resuscitation. In a short time Mr. Ridgway showed signs of returning consciousness and moaned in great pain. Regaining the power of speech the hurt gentleman said: "For God's sake do something to relieve this terrible pain in my shoulder. It is killing me. Have you a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil in the house?"

"Just the thing," said Mr. [illegible] "I have some of the celebrated remedy at hand."

The sufferer was denuded of his clothing, and his right shoulder was found to be badly bruised. Quick hands applied the great remedy [illegible] and in an incredibly short time Mr. Ridgway again showed signs of satisfaction. Soon he said that the pain was greatly relieved, and the application of nearly a whole bottle took away all the pain and swelling which had commenced when they began applying the oil. Examination revealed the fact that Mr. Ridgway had not sustained a fracture of any of his bones, and his remark directly after [illegible] that St. Jacobs Oil had doubtless saved him [illegible] Calling at a neighboring drug store, Mr. Ridgway secured several bottles of this wonderful healing substance and went home. The doctor arrived too late to see the patient.

The exhibition of such wonderful power by the St. Jacobs Oil set all tongues wagging, and many were the expressions of astonishment at the amazing result of its application. Mr. Garcia explained that the Oil was reputed to be almost miraculous in its action in some cases, and the instance of this morning was simply a verification of what he personally knew of it, as well as what was stated of it by persons of his acquaintance. He thought so highly of its splendid curative properties in all cases of pains and hurts, that he never failed to keep some of it on hand. Mr. Ridgway would doubtless feel a little shaken up by his fall for a few days, but several more applications of the remedy would undoubtedly place his shoulder all right.

The reporter was greatly interested in what he had witnessed and resolved to learn more about the performance of the great remedy. Meeting Mr. Robert Young, a printer in the Mercantile Agency, and residing at No. 320 California street, the question of the healing power of St. Jacobs Oil was introduced. Mr. Young immediately and emphatically bore strong testimony in its favor. "Why," he said, "I had been troubled a long time with stiffness of the back. It was especially severe when I took cold. I had also suffered with rheumatic pains in my shoulders. It is therefore with feelings of gratitude that I say the St. Jacobs Oil relieved me of every pain and ache. I most heartily recommend it as a splendid relievant."

During the morning the reporter's duty carried him to North Beach, where he met Mr. Charles Schwarz, proprietor of the North Beach [illegible] Water House, No. 25 Powell street. The following conversation ensued:

"Mr. Schwarz, do you know anything about St. Jacobs Oil?"

"Well, I should say so. It is just the grandest remedy for rheumatism ever made."

"Have you used it, sir?"

"I had it. Yes, it has been a standing remedy in my house for two years. There is nothing like it. We couldn't well get on without it. It has cured my people of rheumatism, burns, bruises and every kind of ache or pain. Then my neighbors use it too. I always have several bottles in my house and it frequently happens that persons [illegible] sudden emergencies. Only a few days since a drayman got badly hurt and I sent out a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. They rubbed it on him and it took away the pain. The man was very grateful and said it was the best stuff in the world."

The reporter stepped in at the popular pharmacy of J. Adolph Boyken, corner of Sixth and Mission streets, and asked the proprietor if he had much call for the St. Jacobs Oil. Mr. Boyken replied:

"The Great German Remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, has been having a big sale with me lately, and my customers are high in their praises of it as a conqueror of pain."

"Astonishing the Natives."

Chicago Times.

Surprises are the order of the day. In matters political, ecclesiastical, civil, and even medical, we hear of things strange—and stranger are daily produced. One of our representatives lately dropped into the Palmer House, and there, in the cozy office occupied by our friend Mr. Frank H. Brooks, manager of the Kansas City Times, we found that gentleman comfortably seated and busied over his correspondence. The writer asked Mr. Brooks if he knew of any cure wrought by St. Jacobs Oil.

"I do, indeed," said Mr. B.: "I know that it cured me. This is how it happened: [illegible] a couple of years ago, and one very slippery [illegible] I was rather late in getting home and had some trouble in picking my way. I had ascended some five or six steps which led up to my front door and just as I gained the top I stepped to open my latch key, when my feet slipped from under me and precipitated me downward to an iron railing [illegible] which I fell striking the small of my back. I was so badly [illegible] I was barely able to enter the house. In the morning I was worse. My back was painful, swollen and discolored. My wife, who always kept St. Jacobs Oil in the house, applied it freely [illegible] the back [illegible] and it afforded me great relief. It was applied again that night and in a couple of days by which time I was completely cured. I think St. Jacobs Oil is a great medicine."

We now began to think that we would certainly astonish the natives. We were [illegible] satisfied, but desired to be more so. After bidding Mr. Brooks good day, we were street car, drove State street and were plumped into the arms of our friend Mr. P. H. Barry of Englewood. Everybody knows Mr. Barry as being the late member of the legislature from Hyde Park. Mr. B. had just returned from the east. We popped the question to Mr. B. and judge of our surprise to hear that gentleman say:

"My wife keeps St. Jacobs Oil in the house at all times. She used it for rheumatism and neuralgia and found it an excellent remedy for both. She thinks there is nothing like it. There is an old lady out my way who was cured of the rheumatism by St. Jacobs Oil, and she is ready to swear by it. You can tell your readers for me that I endorse St. Jacobs Oil the Great German Remedy, and consider it an excellent thing."

On my way home to tea I dropped into the drug store of A. M. Lansaster, No. 246 North Wells street, and that gentleman said:

"There is a gentleman named Janzen, a master mechanic, who was and I think still is a foreman for Adams & Westlake, who has been cured of inflammatory rheumatism. He informed me of the cure some time ago, and said his daughter had been cured also. He purchased the Oil here in my place. He is very enthusiastic over St. Jacobs Oil."

This experience is simply the repetition of the experience of thousands whose reason has been sufficiently persuaded to try the Great German Remedy, and whose faith in it, in consequence, stands unshaken in its wonderful [illegible].

Dr. J. F. Speck, who is connected with the Wilmington Every Evening, speaks rather enthusiastically of St. Jacobs Oil. Dr. Speck states that he uses the oil in his family as a household remedy, a sort of universal panacea for all aches and pains, and has always found it to act most happily. His attention was called to it by the many testimonials to its value, and in one day used it upon himself for sore throat. Two applications were sufficient to effect a cure. He also used it on his little girl for sore throat with gratifying success. The same child had scarlet fever this winter which left the [illegible] much contracted. The little [illegible] couldn't walk without assistance and suffered much [illegible]

Rivalry between San Francisco Grain Exchanges.

San Francisco, May 25.—The produce exchange [illegible] the new exchange, among which are [illegible] W. McNear, W. T. Coleman, H. B. Moore, A. Batchelder of the Starr Mill Company, R. [illegible] of Balfour, Guthrie & Co., J. M. [illegible] of Dresbach & Co., and others. It was decided to enforce the rule that any member of the produce exchange joining the grain exchange or any similar organization, either in person or by proxy, will be suspended within ten days notice. A lively rivalry has arisen between the two exchanges. The grain exchange shows greater dash and familiarity with the call business, but the produce exchange intends to make a vigorous fight for supremacy and will start an informal afternoon call on grain on and after June 1st in addition to the regular morning call. Lively speculative business in grain is prophesied in the near future.

ARIZONA.

Warfare of Races.

Tombstone, May 25.—The Epitaph to-morrow will publish an account of a fight at [illegible] ranch on the line of the Arizona & New Mexico railroad in the south-eastern extremity of Pima county near the Sonora border. Mescal is smuggled across the line and much ill feeling engendered between American railroad laborers and Mexicans. A few evenings ago a number of Mexicans with their families encamped near [illegible] ranch. The American laborers being drunk attempted to force the Mexicans to give up their women. This was resisted and an affray followed in which seven Mexicans were killed and several wounded. A number of Americans were wounded and it is expected three will die.

Attempted Assassination.

Tucson, May 25.—A recent number of the Daily Citizen published certain letters of O. D. Paston and criticized him sharply. This morning Paston met J. A. Whitmore, editor of the Citizen and without saying a word drew a revolver and fired at Whitmore, missing him. Paston has been arrested. The Citizen will to-day denounce him as a cowardly assassin and bully.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

House.

Washington, May 25.

The Mackey-Dibble contested election case was called up by Calkins immediately after reading of the journal.

Randall raised the question of consideration and Kasson interposed a motion to adjourn on which Randall demanded yeas and nays. Motion to adjourn lost, yeas none, nays 134.

The speaker submitted a request [illegible] for leave of absence until Thursday on account of important business.

Hiscock and Randall [illegible] demanded the yeas and nays. Leave was refused; yeas 11, nays 134.

Kasson then moved when the house adjourn it be until Saturday, which Randall moved to amend by substituting Monday. Randall's motion was lost, 1 to [illegible]. Kasson's motion was lost 149 to 1. Wood of N. Y. voted with the republicans.

[illegible] fund was taken up by 11 to 0. It appropriated a quarter of a million dollars.

Shortly after three further proceedings under call were dispensed with and the question recurred on a motion for recess. [illegible] Hardenbergh [illegible] Phelps of Conn. and Ben Woods of N. Y. Nays 134. The speaker [illegible] in order to make a quorum.

Roll call followed [illegible] until 4:15 when the quorum again broke. Then after a further call of the house, a quorum having arrived, the house took a recess until 8.

The president transmitted a letter from the Secretary of State relative to the award made against Venezuela by the mixed commission under the convention of April 25, 1866. The president says: "In case neither house takes action during the present congress I shall feel it my duty to direct this prolonged discussion to be definitely terminated by recognizing the absolute validity of all awards referred."

When the house reassembled the galleries were well filled and on the floor a much larger attendance than is usually observed at a night session. Call of the house was interrupted several times by other roll calls on motions to excuse various members from the evening session, and was not concluded until 9:45 when further proceedings under call will be dispensed with and the question recurred on the motion made prior to recess, that when house adjourns to-day it be to meet Monday next. Republicans were able to secure only 130 votes on this point and there being no quorum the house adjourned.

WAR AGAINST "THE MACHINE."

The protest of the independent and self-respecting republicans of Pennsylvania against machine methods, boss rule and servitude to party masters is a pronounced and well developed movement. It is portentous of the overthrow of Cameron, who has always been numbered among the most absolute and tyrannous of the bosses of the great ring which grew up under the Grant administration. It is true enough, as these protesting republicans declare, that the taking off of President Garfield has reversed the work accomplished at the last national convention and placed the government in the hands of the faction that was defeated there by the resolution and firmness of the representatives of the republican masses of the country. President Arthur has not the support of the great and firm body of republicans. His methods are not liked, his associations are distrusted, and he has shown an inclination to support "the machine" in all its chief movements and purposes. Cameron's convention endorsed Arthur's administration as "wise, conciliatory and efficient." Wise, we may suppose, for appointing none but members of the stalwart minority to office; conciliatory, in trying to pacify the stalwarts who can't get in because there are not places enough to go round, and efficient in restoring to power the old Grant machine. The republicans of boss-ridden Pennsylvania are going to smash that section of this machine which carries on its operations in their state. Republicans of New York have emancipated their party from servitude to Conkling, and republicans of Pennsylvania will accomplish a like deliverance of the party from the rule of the less able though equally despotic personality of Cameron. The independent republican convention of Pennsylvania represents the true principles of political freedom which have made the republican party all it is or has ever been.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

The passage of an act for the creation of a commission to revise the tariff would look like an abdication by congress of some of the most important of its functions, were it not evident that the proceeding is a ruse to prevent any actual revision. Congress is under the control of those who realize immense profits out of the present system. The bill to create a commission is merely a dilatory measure. The beneficiaries of the existing system caused its adoption for their own protection. As a subterfuge to put off the demand for tariff reform it will answer its purpose. Undoubtedly the managers of this shrewd plan will see to it that the commissioners are men of the right kind. The great manufacturing monopolies will easily induce the commissioners to stand by them, and there will be an official report in which it will be argued with a specious sophistry that the manufacturing localities of the east ought to have "protection at the expense of the non-manufacturing localities of the west and south." True, the argument will not take this form of plainness, but in its analysis it will amount to just this and nothing less. After the commission gets through with the inquiry the subject will be just where it was at the beginning. It will remain to be contested in all its parts and phases in congress, where the special interests of various localities will struggle for the advantage. Meantime, however, the commission will have done the work for which it was constituted. It will postpone action and continue the protected monopolies in the enjoyment of their legalized right to make gains and profits at the cost of the great body of the consumers of the country. The president is about to appoint the commissioners. He is beset with suggestions and pressure from the great manufacturing establishments, whose managers insist upon having men whom they can trust fully, and doubtless they will get them. This adds to the farcical character of the proceeding. The revision will be wholly in the interest of those who, without the revision, already have all they can hope to obtain.

THE REGULATION STYLE.

Of course it will be expected that a rabidly partisan paper which supports all the candidates of its own party under all circumstances, without the smallest inquiry as to their character and fitness, will likewise make venomous opposition to all opposing candidates. Such a paper simply wants a partisan triumph. It was for this reason that the bourbon organ here began its attacks upon Geo. C. Sears. The tables have since been turned; it has been caught in a trap of its own setting, and now its attacks take the direction of personal malevolence. Mr. Sears has shown good ability and given general satisfaction as assessor of this county, an exceedingly difficult position to fill. For the duties of the office of sheriff he has ample capacity, and if elected he will be no dummy in the position. If his principal maligner would begin his grand work of honesty and reform by casting the beam out of his own eye he would probably be able to see more clearly the motes in other's eyes. He who was an agent in swindling the state out of enormous sums through "experting" might, however, be expected to exhibit an inexorable severity in his judgment of the rectitude of others. No character can be high enough to meet the exactions of this lofty morality—unless such character have a place on the "regular ticket," and then no questions are asked and no criticisms tolerated. This is organ-grinding in the regulation style.

The Chinese system of slavery is the worst on earth and in spite of our laws it is practiced by the Chinese in America in its most cruel and revolting forms. The characteristics which prevent the Chinaman from becoming American as the Germans or Scotch become American, maintain strict isolation of their communities here and permit the exercise of the customs and even the laws of China. Their degrading system of slavery is perfectly understood, but it is impossible to break it up. The British government of Hongkong has attempted to suppress the great evil, but without success. It is admitted by those who defend and those who oppose the system that Chinese fathers and guardians constantly sell their children, for money and by formal deed, into slavery—the boys to be servants and the girls to be prostitutes in the worst houses in that country. The chief justice of the colony, Sir John Smale, declares that it is the worst form of slavery, and that its only sanction is Chinese opinion, which holds, first, that the parent right is absolute and transferrable for money; second, that the person so transfered can be lawfully compelled to obedience by pain; and, third, that it is infamous for a slave to enfranchise himself or herself without paying back the whole of the purchase money, though they are legally free. Such is the terrorism of the Chinese domestic system. These slaves, knowing they are free, dare not enfranchise themselves. Worse than all, the perplexities of the system are so great that the authorities of Hongkong do not know how to suppress it. The facts in the case are none the less interesting because they relate to horrors whose counterparts and kind are enacted daily in our own city.

Col. Napoleon Bonaparte Knight, of Salem, who has always heretofore insisted on adherence to "the straight ticket" as a cardinal virtue, now gets new light when he and his clique do not control the straight ticket. He was a candidate for the state senate, and is so profoundly convinced that the republican party made a grievous mistake in not nominating him that he is now reported by the Statesman to be on a hunt over the county with the democratic candidates to defeat the republican ticket. It is even whispered that he will come out as an independent candidate for the state senate. This is excellent. One by one the ring stalwarts, as they are sat down on, begin to see great merit in resolute independence and courageous bolting, and readily take a course which always hitherto they have insisted was justly punishable with severest censure and reproach, if not indeed with fine and excommunication without benefit of clergy. But we fear Col. Knight will make a poor sort of an independent. No thoroughbred machine man can take on the character in a day.

With the purpose of learning how deep it is the purpose of the Germans in Ohio to quit the republican party because of its responsibility for the Pond and Sunday bills, the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial interviewed a prominent brewer in attendance upon a convention of the trade at Washington. He said: "As far as we are concerned, we have no desire to leave the republican party or to permit its nominees for congress or the presidency to suffer. I would willingly vote for the republican nominees for congress in Cincinnati, but what others may do I cannot say. In the last election I told my men to vote for the ward officers just the same as usual, but they every one voted democratic tickets in spite of me. I think everything depends upon the action of the supreme court in deciding the constitutionality of the Pond bill. We would have accepted the Lucke bill as all right, but if the Pond bill stands, then I think the result next fall will be extremely doubtful. The next legislature can't be saved at any price. It is doomed."

It is reported that in some localities opposition is being made to the re-election of legislative members who did not vote last session to reduce the rate of interest on money. These members no doubt saw that the rent of money could no more be controlled by law than the rent of houses and lands. It is quite as practicable to give the farmer a high price for his wheat by law as to give the borrower a low rate of interest on money by law. If the member who failed to vote for the reduction of the rate of interest ought not to be sent back to the legislature, then by all means and for a still more cogent reason the member who failed to stand by the proposition to assure the farmer at least a dollar a bushel for his wheat ought also to be rejected.

One of the most expensive of the justices' courts of the city is that of Charles A. Petrain. His precinct is North Portland. Petrain is a candidate for re-election. The atmosphere that surrounds his court is highly favorable to suits, to arrests and trials for trifling causes, and to various litigious proceedings at great cost to the county. It is needless to say that "experts" are always at hand to work up all the cases they can for all there is in them and for all that can be got out of them; and hence justices should be chosen with a view to discouragement of this "industry" rather than to protection of it. If North Portland would elect S. H. Greene it would get a good justice and do the county treasury a service.

He was a cool Hoosier convict who, wearying of the fruitlessness of the applications made to the governor for his pardon, concluded to interview that functionary personally, and the better to do so escaped from the penitentiary at Jeffersonville, made his way to Indianapolis, and coolly walked into the governor's private office, promising to return if he could receive a pardon. Meantime, his absence was discovered and a price set upon his head. The governor would do well to remove his inefficient keeper and give this man the place.

The lumber business of Chicago is prodigious. Movements of lumber by rail from that city amount at the present time to about 4,000,000 feet a day. Last year it was even more. It averaged for the entire year almost 6,000,000 feet a day, or 600 car loads leaving the city every 24 hours. It is estimated that from 2000 to 3000 acres of timber land is stripped every 24 hours to supply the lumber which finds a market at Chicago.

The Cameron machine in Pennsylvania is pretty badly hurt by the refusal of Thomas M. Marshall to accept the nomination for congressman-at-large. He was nominated without his solicitation, and being earnestly opposed to the Cameron dynasty he refuses to allow the machinists to use his name. His action greatly embarrasses them.

Many employes at Cincinnati, having become tired of the dictation of trades unions, are making an effort to form a league which shall be pledged not to give employment to a union man. The movement commenced with building contractors, and now includes nearly all the employers of large numbers of men in the city.

SAYS

"THE OVAL CAKE"

Is revolutionizing the Soap Trade. Housekeepers who once try it never again go back to the wasteful, adulterated and incompletely pressed styles heretofore in use. The advantages of

Colgate & Co's "New" Soap

Over all other Laundry Soaps are:

1st. It is the only Soap molded by STEAM pressure, and consequently contains more soap and less water to the pound than the old style hand-pressed soaps.

2d. The Oval Cake does not, like the other styles, wash away in using to a thin piece, which crumbles and is wasted, but it wears down to a thick lump, which you can stick a fork into and use entirely up.

3d. It contains no adulteration whatever.

4th. It is the handsomest, most convenient to handle, most economical, and, considering its superior quality, the cheapest Washing Soap ever made.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 26, 1882

CITY.

DISTINGUISHED CHINAMAN'S FUNERAL.—Yesterday Lam Tah Wy, a prominent Chinaman, was buried with much pomp. He belonged to the Masons and had passed through all the offices. [illegible] Worthy [illegible] Right Hand Supporter to the Most [illegible] [illegible] Sachem, Grand Keeper of the [illegible] Sagamore [illegible] Master [illegible] the [illegible] Lodge, Captain Warden to the M. E. Grand St. [illegible] and was [illegible] from Couch. A gray-haired miner from Nevada, now shoveling coke at the gas works in East Portland, who saw both events, said to an OREGONIAN reporter that his layout was far ahead of Buck Far [illegible]'s funeral arranged by Scotty Briggs. Two Chinese orchestras and one white band furnished the music and [illegible] [illegible] on a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] drivers [illegible] the grand marshal, that [illegible] ways in front. The parade, however, [illegible] [illegible] M. [illegible] and George [illegible] were [illegible] returning.

CORRECT TIME.—Should the bill now before congress pass, the naval observatory at Washington will be enabled to furnish meridian time to all the principal custom houses in this country. One of the naval officers in charge has promised that a ball shall be hoisted on the custom house here which shall be dropped at the exact moment of the hour of noon in Washington. This will be nearly three hours earlier in the day in the city of Portland, but it will enable all interested to get exact time, and will be a great advantage to ship masters who, when lying in port, can rate their chronometers with accuracy. Congressman George is doing all he can to favor the passage of the bill.

THOSE BAD BOYS.—The nine young hoodlums mentioned in yesterday's OREGONIAN were tried in the police court yesterday afternoon, J. A. Caseybell defending. The two oldest, Clinton Roe, aged 16, and Willie Scott, aged 14, were fined $20, which they could not pay and went to jail. The remainder were dismissed by Judge S. A. Moreland with a very severe reprimand, which City Attorney Stearns followed by a lecture. Those who have shown an interest in the proposed reform school would have received additional proof of the urgent needs of such an institution if they had been present at the trial.

THE MINSTRELS TO-NIGHT.—Three more performances—to-night, to-morrow afternoon and to-morrow night, and the Standard minstrels bid Portland good bye. They merited the large houses which greeted them during the first engagement, and they will no doubt pack the theater again. For the first part and the olio, everything will be new, and new features will be introduced with the picnic. On Monday, the company leave for the sound and Victoria, then to San Francisco. The programme is published in full in the advertising columns.

DECORATION DAY.—The general committee on Decoration Day have nearly completed arrangements for the observance of the day in this city and at Lone Fir Cemetery, the programme for which will be published in a few days. Persons having flowers to donate are requested to notify any member of the committee of the fact and they will be called for; or to leave them at the hall of George Wright Post, on the morning of Decoration Day. It is desired that the floral offerings be plentiful, as many will needed.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.—The committee on streets and public property awarded the contract for a sewer in E street to B. Oaken for $5047 50; sewer in Mill street, to John Gibson for $1637 25; sewer in Morrison street, to John Gibson for $962 25. Bids were also received for macadamizing East Park street from A to College, and Oak from Second to East Park, all of which were rejected and the work readvertised for reletting to-morrow.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Miss Eaton, one of the teachers in Pacific University, Forest Grove, died very suddenly Tuesday. She ran up stairs quickly, and, it is supposed ruptured a blood vessel, as she fell down and died within a short time. She was about twenty-two years old, and was much beloved by her pupils and highly respected by all acquaintances.

BROKE HIS ARM.—While running to the fire yesterday morning, Edward Jasper, a sixteen-year old boy, clerking in Plummer & Bayerly's drug store, tripped over a plank on the sidewalk, fell and broke both bones of his left arm, between the wrist and the elbow. He was carried back to the store, where Dr. Plummer reduced the fracture.

PROPOSALS FOR BONDS.—The commissioners of Clarke county, W. T., announce that they will receive proposals for the purchase of bonds to the amount of $25,000 for the erection of a court house and jail, as authorized by the last legislature. Bids will be received until Tuesday, June 6.

EXCURSION TO VANCOUVER.—Under the auspices of Meade Post G. A. R. of Oregon City, the steamer City of Salem will leave the foot of Alder street for Vancouver, next Tuesday, (Decoration Day) at 9 A. M., touching at Dodd's wharf, East Portland, at 9:15. Returning, the boat will leave Vancouver at 4 P. M.

NEW RESIDENCE.—Mr. A. J. Knott will commence next week building a residence on the north side of L street, between Eighth and Ninth, East Portland. Plans are by Mr. W. A. Lewis, and the residence will be decidedly the handsomest and most costly in our sister city.

THE MILLER BENEFIT EXCURSION.—The committee in charge of the excursion for the benefit of Edward Miller, to take place Sunday, June 4, have chartered the steamer Washington and the barge Cascades for the occasion. The East Portland band will furnish music.

FREE FERRIAGE.—Through the kindness of Knott Bros., arrangements have been made by which all who go in the Grand Army procession on Decoration Day will have free ferriage across the river on the way to and from the cemetery.

BRIEF MENTION.

The minstrels return to-night.

Minstrel matinee to-morrow at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Wm. Masters, ex-county treasurer, now of Yakima, is in the city.

It is said to be better than a circus to see Muldoon and Mulcahey on roller skates.

Messrs. J. M. Bower and C. P. Yates will address the south Portland republican club to-night.

Mr. Robert G. Corbaley, representing the law department of A. L. Bancroft & Co., is in the city.

CARRIE BRADLEY'S TRIAL.

Cross-Examination of Dolly Adams and Testimony of Mollie Flippen and "Ace" Murray.

Third Day—Morning Session.

State circuit court met at [illegible] and resumed the trial of Carrie Bradley on the charge of murder.

CROSS-EXAMINATION OF DOLLY ADAMS.

By Mr. Watson was resumed. When Carrie [illegible] [illegible] the brandy and morphine [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Carrie said, "My [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] defendant [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Carrie [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Dolly Adams, [illegible].

Mr. Watson asked the question, "What [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Mr. Caples objected, and Mr. Watson [illegible] [illegible] to answer.

The court ordered the witness to answer the question.

Witness positively declined to answer.

Mr. Watson moved that the witness be committed for contempt, [illegible] there was more sparring between counsel, when the motion for commitment was withdrawn for the present, and the cross-examination continued.

Witness has been in Portland two years, at Mercer [illegible] in New York, [illegible] in San Francisco three months. Was known in Portland as Dolly Adams. Witness said that was not her true name. Have never been convicted of any crime. Have talked with Messrs. Caples, Murray and Simmons about this affair since confinement in the jail. Did not tell of this affair until after Carrie left town. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Told Mr. Caples [illegible]. This was about a week after Carrie left town. Mollie Thompson and Mr. Simmons were present. It was in Mr. Caples' office. [illegible] this before Carrie had a chance to get away, because she threatened to kill witness. Intended to tell it before witness left her house. Had a quarrel with Carrie Bradley about a man whom she wanted witness to go through for $100. Carrie said the man had $700 on his person the Saturday night previous. Carrie wanted witness to get the man in her room and rob him and she would not do it and hence had a quarrel.

Loaned Carrie $30. She wanted me to let her have $150. Said she was going to skip the town. Wanted me to cut off my hair and go with her over land to California. I said I would not go. Did not give her the money but loaned it to her. Did not say to Chief Lappeus that a man was not chloroformed at Bradley's house. Mollie Flippen and I went to Chief Lappeus' office the next day after I first told this affair to Mr. Caples. Did not say to him that I did not know that a man died there. Went to Maggie Russell's house after I left Carrie Bradley. Was there about three months when I came here. Am now living in the jail.

FAY [illegible] CALLED.

Competency of the witness to testify in consequence of her name not being endorsed on the indictment, although she has been examined before the grand jury was called in question by counsel for defense.

After a lengthy argument the objection was overruled.

Examination resumed. Know Carrie Bradley. Was at her house when Brown was brought there. Carrie asked me to take care of the house while she went to get the man who had the house indicted. Carrie, Pete and Dolly went out and came back after awhile and they all sat in the parlor. Witness went on and told the story of the brandy, morphine and chloroform and putting Brown to bed which did not materially differ from the testimony of Dolly Adams on the same points. Witness had no talks with any one about this affair except attorneys for the defense outside of the testimony she gave before the grand jury. Reside corner of Second and Washington streets. Have not been arrested on any charge connected with this murder.

The hour of noon having arrived the court took the usual recess.

Afternoon Session

The prosecution called the witness, Mollie Thompson, who was sworn. Mr. Mason, for the defense, asked the witness if her right name was Mollie Thompson? Witness said, "No, my right name is Mollie Flippen." Counsel for the defense then objected to the witness as not being named in the indictment as one of the witnesses to be produced in the case.

The court decided that the common name of a person by which she has been known would subserve the demands of justice as well as the legal one. Defendant's counsel took exceptions.

The witness, who had retired to the anteroom during the lengthy discussion, returned to the stand and was about to resume her testimony when the defendant was taken faint and left the court room for a few moments, again interrupting the testimony.

Direct examination resumed: Am acquainted with Carrie Bradley; have been an inmate of her house; knew Pete Sullivan, Dolly Adams and a man named Brown; recollect the evening of this man Brown being brought to Bradley's; had a conversation with Bradley the afternoon previous in regard to morphine; Bradley asked Dolly Adams for morphine to ease her rheumatism; she asked Miss Dolly to go up stairs and bring down the morphine. Miss Carrie said she didn't think there was enough and gave Miss Dolly a dollar to go and buy some more, which she did. A short time after that Miss Carrie came to me and said, "I am going to tell you something and I don't want you to say anything about it." I said, "What is it, Miss Carrie?" She said, "I expect that old ——, that had me indicted, up here with Pete Sullivan to-night, and I am either going to kill him or shanghai him; that's what I wanted the morphine for; don't say anything to Dolly about it or she will take it away from me." Then some one came to the door and Miss Carrie went and had a long talk, and when she came back she said "that old —— is up to Chauncy Dale's saloon and I am going up to see him and take Dolly with me." She called Miss Dolly and told her to put on her things and come along. Dolly asked where she was going. Miss Carrie said she would tell her when they got in the hack. Dolly said she hadn't her shoes on; Miss Carrie said she could put them on in the hack; so they drove away. They came back in a hack and Brown was with them; also Pete Sullivan and "Ace" Murray. They all came in the front parlor, and Brown sat down on the lounge with Pete Sullivan on one side of him and Miss Carrie on the other side. Miss Carrie then asked us all to drink and brought in the drinks herself. I saw Miss Carrie put morphine in the brandy and said "Miss Carrie, don't do that;" she said, "mind your own business; you always have too much to say in this house, and if you don't like it you know what you can do." She put morphine into every drink she gave him. Dolly and I both told her not to do it, and she told Dolly to mind her own business, too. Miss Carrie said her head ached, and gave "Ace" Murray money to go and get some chloroform. She took it in her room and took two handkerchiefs out of a drawer and wet them with the chloroform and gave one to Pete and kept one herself. Miss Carrie had her arms around Brown's neck and was caressing him and calling him endearing names all the time wiping his face and mouth with the wet handkerchief. Pete was shaking his handkerchief up and down by the side of Brown's face. Miss Carrie and Pete took him up stairs. I took drinks up for five, and Miss Carrie asked me which was Brown's drink. I said, "It don't make any difference, Miss Carrie, they're all whisky." She said, "Why didn't you get some of that brandy and put some morphine in it?" I said I wouldn't do it; she said, "I'll fix him this time," and snatched the tray and went down stairs, she brought up some brandy and gave it to Brown. Dolly Adams took off Brown's coat, and Miss Carrie unbuttoned the rest of his clothes, and Pete took them off and put him to bed, laying down with him, with his clothes on. Brown was at the back side and Pete at the front. Miss Carrie gave the chloroformed handkerchiefs to Pete, and he put them over Brown's mouth and held them there by putting a towel around his head. Miss Carrie took the light out of the room and told us to go to bed. I did not see the man the next day. Miss Carrie called us up early and told us to go to the White House, and gave me $10, and gave the other girls money. We went to the White House and came home at 7 o'clock; went again the next night about 11 or 12 o'clock; Miss Carrie told us that Charley Hamilton had gone there with some girl and wanted us to see about it; she paid the expenses; we staid until 5 o'clock in the morning; recollect the next day about Dolly's dog being taken away; Carrie told Dolly to take it to the White House; Dolly told me afterwards that they took the dog away for fear he would smell the dead man and dig up some part of his body, and some one might find it. Witness did not know the man was dead, nor see him after he was dead until she saw the body at the morgue; did not then know it was Brown, but only that it was some one whom she had seen at Bradley's. She further testified: Carrie told me about two weeks before she went away, who the man was; she came to me and said, "I'm in trouble and have to go away." I asked her what was the matter. She said: "Charley Hamilton had saved her life by going away. She then said, "I'll tell you something; that man at the morgue, you went to see, was the man I gave morphine and chloroform to; I and Pete Sullivan."

CROSS EXAMINATION.

"Never was called Mollie Flippen at Bradley's; don't remember when Dolly Adams came there; was acquainted with her before she came there; don't know how long; had seen Brown twice at Bradley's; saw him the first night three or four nights before he came to the house in the hack with Carrie, Pete, Dolly and "Ace"; that first night he came to the door and wanted to see Dolly; Miss Carrie wouldn't let him in and called him all the bad names she could think of; I didn't think it was any business of mine what she was doing when she gave him the chloroform; didn't suppose she was going to kill him; thought she ought to know what she was doing; did think after Brown got upstairs that he would not live till morning, and told Dolly Adams so; saw Brown take a couple of drinks; when they gave him chloroform he did not struggle, sneeze or cough; did not see her put it over his mouth; she kept wiping his face. Carrie sat on his left side; the sofa was large enough for three; Mollie Moss went with me to the morgue; I was not sick in bed the night Dolly and Brown had the fuss; had a talk with Dolly Adams last night about this case; have been confined in the same room at the county jail with Miss Dolly; she did not tell me what she had testified, nor did I tell her what I would testify; have talked with the district attorney as to what would be done with me; he told me he would dismiss the indictment against me, if I would go on the witness stand and testify what I knew about this matter, if it turned out to be the truth. The same promise was made to Dolly Adams."

The defense here rested, reserving the privilege to recall the witness to the stand for the purpose of asking a few impeaching questions on which counsel was not yet prepared. This was objected to by the prosecution, but the objection was finally withdrawn.

[illegible] WITNESSES.

Chauncy Dale, the keeper of the saloon into which Brown was first invited [illegible] was [illegible] Counsel for defense objected to his testimony as his name was not included in the indictment. Objection sustained.

J. P. Davis, one of the proprietors of the National hotel, where Brown stopped in Portland, was called to the stand, but was not allowed to testify, as he could not positively identify Brown. Some corroborative testimony from him, however, was introduced showing the trunk which Brown left at the hotel and which [illegible] opened on no [illegible] one [illegible] came to claim it.

BUYING THE CHLOROFORM.

Asa Strauger, called by the girls "Ace" Murray, was then sworn and testified: "Am acquainted with Carrie Bradley, Dollie Adams and Pete Sullivan; recollect the circumstance of a man being taken to Bradley's house, first saw him in Chauncy Dale's saloon; there were several in the saloon; saw Carrie Bradley there that evening; the first I saw of her was at the house; I went up there and told her that

BURNED TO THE WATER'S EDGE.

THE STEAMSHIP YAQUINA TAKES FIRE AND IS DESTROYED.

The Disaster Caused by Spontaneous Combustion of Lime in the Hold—Loss nearly $41,000—No Insurance.

Yesterday morning at [illegible] o'clock the new coasting steamship Yaquina arrived at Portland from San Juan Island, with 2?? barrels of lime, [illegible] [illegible] of which were [illegible].

Consultations were held [illegible] [illegible] and the owners, with several of the [illegible] ship masters in port, all of whom advised [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. The [illegible] course, it was agreed, would certainly burst the [illegible] and render the [illegible] worthless. [illegible] would have been made to [illegible] the fire with carbonic acid gas, but no appliances for producing gas in sufficient quantities could be [illegible]. After further consultation, it was decided to bore small holes through the deck and smother the fire with sand. The hatchway and deck became easier after noon giving rise to the hope that the fire was subsiding. Suddenly, about [illegible] o'clock, flames shot up from the engine room and in a few minutes the [illegible] of the after cabin was enveloped in a blaze. [illegible] [illegible] was aboard, and all jumped to the dock, except Captain [illegible], the mate and the crew. The steamer's lines were cast off, and the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] boat house [illegible] [illegible]. For a few minutes the boat house was in imminent danger of taking fire, but fifty or more men with long pikes shoved the vessel out into the stream. Just then the steamer [illegible], Capt. James T. [illegible] [illegible], came to the rescue of the [illegible] and took a line from her. At the stern [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. Yaquina [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] one of the crew jumped overboard. He was rescued by a small boat. The Yaquina was towed by the [illegible] to the East Portland side, about 200 yards above the foot of [illegible] street, and beached in ten feet of water. The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. The steamer continued to burn slowly until her entire upper works were gone. At dark she had listed towards the west, her smokestack having fallen, and she was burned several feet below the deck, so that the ribs stood out.

THE LOSS.

The Yaquina was built last year at Albina, and made her first trip shortly before New Years. Her value was $40,000, and she was owned by Z. J. Hatch, who held a three-fourths interest, and by R. S. Tuthill, who held one-fourth. Because her route embraced waters not regularly surveyed, insurance rates were placed so high that the owners did not feel justified in insuring, hence the loss falls on them alone. The San Juan Lime Co. owned the cargo, valued at $2500; no insurance.

Consequential damages will not be light. On account of the unprecedented building boom, the market here was bare of lime, and buildings could not go forward. Not less than six hundred mechanics had to quit work until a supply was received. The six hundred barrels will last a few days, but not long. A prominent dealer telegraphed to San Francisco for one thousand barrels, and was informed that his order could not be filled for two weeks. The Yaquina would have returned immediately with another cargo of lime, which was urgently needed.

The morning alarm called a large crowd to Pacific dock, and persons kept visiting the ship all day. Every one, whether he knew anything about fires on vessels or not, had a suggestion to offer, and last night probably five hundred of these all wise beings attribute the loss of the vessel to the fact that his particular plan had not been followed. As a volume of dense smoke was seen shortly after three in the direction of the dock, there were general exclamations, "It's the Yaquina," and a rush to the dock fronts and roofs of buildings fronting the Willamette. Every available row boat was taken within ten minutes, and the river above Jefferson street was thickly dotted with small craft.

The Yaquina was strictly a Portland enterprise, established by two young and enterprising men, who had invested nearly all their savings in her, and the steamer was just commencing a profitable business. That she was in great danger, and was not protected by insurance, became known before noon to the many friends of Messrs. Hatch & Tuthill and the public generally, who admired their pluck. Hence as she was being carried to the opposite bank by the Lurline, leaving a wake of flame and smoke, it seemed as if the five thousand people who saw her sank with a sigh, "Farewell." The result was pathetic.

JULIE RIVE-KING.

Proposed Series of Grand Festival Concerts in Portland.

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] placed in the same category [illegible] Manager Locke, of the Bush Street Theater, San Francisco, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] city [illegible] Saturday, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] pianist, Julie Rive-King, who is now [illegible] [illegible] success in San Francisco, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] by the press there as everywhere else to be the peer of the greatest living artists, to visit Portland in June, accompanied by several of the foremost [illegible] artists of the day. The proposition is to give a series of four grand concerts, the programmes [illegible] entirely new at each, the dates being June 12, [illegible] 16 and 17. The seating capacity of the theater will be somewhat increased for these concerts, and the theater will be beautifully decorated for the occasion. On the inaugural night a handsome festival [illegible] will be presented to each lady.

It is intended that these grand concerts will excel anything heretofore attempted in that line in Portland, and large outlay is of course essential to secure the artists desired.

JULIE RIVE-KING.

It is sufficient to say simply that she is an artist of such transcendent genius that all who hear her are literally enraptured. Her art is so great that she charms those who have never received musical education. Her coming to Portland will be a revelation and an inspiration.

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Has borne testimony to her transcendent talent. "No pianist since Rubinstein has made a more brilliant debut in New York," says the New York Tribune. "Her debut was a grand triumph," remarks the Herald. She has been unanimously compared with Rubinstein, Bulow and Essipoff by the best critics, which is the strongest and highest compliment that could be paid her. Mme. Rive-King's repertoire is of almost unlimited compass, and she interprets the masterpieces of the classic and the romantic school, and the compositions of the past and of the present with equal facility, charm and power. She is the [illegible], to the technique of a great virtuoso, the insight, appreciativeness and well-schooled taste of a practical composer. Some of Mme. Rive-King's compositions and arrangements of works are among the most scholarly of modern publications.

OTHER ARTISTS.

Besides Mme. King it is proposed to bring a brilliant company of vocal and instrumental artists, whose names will be ready for public announcement soon, should the public of Portland stamp the proposed festival with their approval.

THE PRICES.

The cost of the proposed series of concerts will approximate $4030. Manager Locke desires to have 300 transferable double-season tickets at $17 each, entitling the holder to the first choice of two reserved seats for each of the four concerts or eight tickets in all, bespoken by our citizens, and with this encouragement he will remain in Portland and personally direct the festival.

WHEAT AND CHARTERS.

Transactions in wheat for the past week were limited, although we hear of a large lot held by a speculator in Albany, which was closed out here at a figure understood to be under $1 70 per cental. The Importer was chartered by Sibson, Church & Co during the week, and will load the last cargo of Walla Walla wheat to be dispatched from this port until the beginning of the new crop year in August. There is yet one cargo of valley wheat here for shipment which is awaiting a suitable vessel, and will also be the last valley cargo for the season. There may be two or three iron cargoes of flour dispatched in June-July as remnants from the various mills, and the business for '81-'82 will have been finished for cereal exports. Under the stress of such circumstances it may well be imagined that freights are very weak in this port, present and prospective. The unusual number of ships bound this way from Chinese ports has upset the regulation of supply and demand, and we see no business ahead on the Columbia river except to wait until August or September for new crop wheat for most of the vessels arriving. We hear of some charters made here for next season's loading at 55s U. K., but the later feeling is not so buoyant owing to the reported shortage of the California crop.

Reports from Oregon and Washington territory are still of the most favorable nature, and the growing grain is feeling the stimulus of the warm weather now prevailing and is making up for the backwardness of the season up to a late date.

BAGS.

There is no apparent disposition to buy sacks yet manifest among the interior warehousemen, and they may therefore be quoted nominally at 9¼@9½ cents July delivery as to quality.

FOREIGN CROPS AND DEMANDS.

The demand for wheat from foreign countries is increasing. Last year's crop has been exhausted, and the present growing crop forms only a basis for speculation. In the eight months preceding March 21st France imported net in wheat and flour 5,222,120 qrs, against 4,850,000 qrs for the corresponding period last year. The quantity of wheat on passage to Antwerp is 173,000 qrs, against 220,000 qrs at the same time a year ago. In Germany the "term" markets have been rather improving for wheat, but the price of wheat freights east has little or no effect on markets at that place. At Vienna wheat was scantily offered, but the demand was so slight that no advance could be maintained. At Pesth the quotations for spring term wheat improved 27 kr in one week. Mr. Michael G. Mulhall estimates the wheat lands of the world at 103,000,000 acres, yielding fifteen bushels per acre, and he places the figures for the crop, consumption, surplus and deficit for each country as follows:

COUNTRIES.	Crop	Consumption (million bush)	Surplus	Deficit
United States	400	250	150	....
France	230	260	....	30
Russia	150	90	60	....

United Kingdom	90	200	....	110

Spain and Portugal	85	85	....	....

WOOL.

Receipts at Portland for the week have been about [illegible] pounds, of which half has been marketed here at prices ranging from 20 to 25 cents per pound; the other half having gone to San Francisco. The tone of the market is quiet. The San Francisco Post of the 16th inst. reports the situation in California as follows: "The wool market continues strong and fairly active for clothing and delaine, but coarse wools are not wanted, and to place them quickly low prices must be submitted to. We note sale during the week of a clip from Colusa county at 27½c, and a Solano county clip at 28c, with some fancy clips placed at over 30c. These are figures only reached by the finer grades, that are strong, light, clean and free from burrs or seeds. Dirty, heavy wools are proportionately less. Some Australasian wool, delaine grade, medium fine for Australian, two inches long, was sold in this market at [illegible] per pound, to go east. We have seen some clips from Wasco county, Oregon, equal to, if not superior, to this Australian clip, and of many clips in this state the same can be said. Good sellers get good prices. Two clips of Oregon wools arrived and were sold, prices private, but said to be at full figures. This is doubted by some, owing to the active competition for that grade of wool, which it is thought the sellers were not advised of. Receipts of California are increasing quite rapidly, allowing a better field for selecting. The finer grades are strongly held at full figures, with the fancy held at such figures as to cause speculative buyers to hesitate. It is said that some manufacturers at the east can utilize the fancy clips at the high figures named, but prefer, for the present, not to let their representatives bid up too openly, for fear of sending all grades up, or, at least, of having an injurious effect on the prices for other grades of wools. There is no denying that the trade of the country is more in favor of finer goods, and to meet which manufacturers at the east must buy fine wools and use less shoddy. To import fine wools will cost them from 8c to 10c per pound more than now asked at the highest figures for the same grade of domestic wools, and why they should ask our wool growers to accept so much less than they can import for, is more than can be satisfactorily answered. Many clips of California, Oregon and Washington wools would, if they could be sold in this market as imported or Australian wools, bring from 5c to 10c per pound more than if sold as Pacific coast wools. This anomalous state of affairs it is well for growers to find out the cause for. Since writing the above we are informed that several buyers have returned to the east having filled their orders or else have left orders to be filled. Buyers talk down, but holders do not show any disposition to shade. Oregon advices report very high prices paid there."

SALMON.

Fishermen are doing a little better than last week. The catch for the past six days has averaged in size to the best, closely approaching the figures of the corresponding week of last year. Fishermen are very venturesome and already several have lost their lives on the bar. The scarcity and high price of fish is a temptation which the poor fellows cannot resist.

LIME.

The loss of the cargo of lime which as we write is burning with the steamer Yaquina opposite the city front, will for a few days embarrass building operations in this city. When it was known to be on fire this morning a dealer telegraphed to San Francisco for a thousand barrels by the steamer next sailing, and in reply was informed that not a barrel could be secured in San Francisco for two weeks ahead. The prospective scarcity has not affected prices as yet.

Portland Produce Prices.

No change in quotations for flour. The market is very firm and there is very good demand for standard brands. There are large lots of eastern Oregon flour stored here awaiting foreign shipment. Of standard brands and good country grades the supply is just about equal to the demand. There is no change in prices for oats. The tendency, however, is downward owing to unfavorable advices from San Francisco. There have not been any large sales, buyers holding off for concessions, and to-day's reports show that there are large offerings in San Francisco. The prospects for the coming crop are very fair. Barley continues unchanged in prices and transactions are brisk. An unusual number of sales have occurred this week. Baled timothy hay is becoming very scarce and prices have advanced during the past week. Stocks in town are rather light. Cured meats are quiet. The market is wholly supplied by local packers. Country-cured meats are scarce and a first class article will find ready sales. Lard in kegs is very scarce. The local demand for keg lard is not supplied. Dried apples are dull sale. There is little demand for sun-dried apples. Plummer dried in 25-pound boxes are sought in preference to 50-pound boxes. Dried plums are almost unsalable, and there are several stocks in town which have been held for over a year. Sun-dried plums in sacks cannot be sold at any price, and if producers wish to have their fruit placed upon the market, they should send them to the city in neat packages. Hops are unchanged. Receipts of choice dairy butter during the past week have been excessive. Prices have declined in consequence, and we anticipate a further decline during the coming week. Dairy men cannot be too careful to send their butter to market in good shape. Choice butter in disproportioned rolls will not sell so readily or bring so good a price. There is no shipping demand for onions and the local demand is light. Receipts of eggs during the past week have been very large. Last week's prices are still maintained, but will drop, we think, in a day or two. The very high rates which have ruled for chickens during the past week have brought to the front veterans whose wonderful toughness have preserved them against death from old age for years. Receipts are large and prices have dropped. Potatoes are a little better. There will be no shipping demand after two weeks. Shingles are in good demand. No. 1 shaved will find ready sale at top figures. Following are current quotations, corrected to [illegible] P. M.:

Eastern Freight Situation.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Freights are moderately active, but deliveries of iron are slow, and delay ships in loading. The M. P. Grace will finish tomorrow, having cleared to-day. The Conqueror will follow by the end of the month. Rates remain steady. Tonnage for long voyage is plenty and prices favor agents. There are no new engagements for lines, but a ship has been taken to load a cargo of coal at Philadelphia for Acapulco at $5. The bark Kioto has sailed for Portland. Her cargo comprises in part 3000 cases oil, 1000 kegs nails, 70 bbls whisky, 600 cases canned goods, 1000 packages starch and 313 tons coal. Discrimination by Pacific roads against merchants in the east is much talked of. It is said that the rate on wool from San Francisco to Boston is 2¼ cents per pound, while from Australia to Boston, via San Francisco, it is only two cents per pound.

Illinois Crop Notes.

SPRINGFIELD, May 25.—The state department of agriculture says reports are not calculated to inspire confidence for the average crop of corn. Planting was delayed by rains and cold weather, and much of the seed rotted in the ground. Chinch bugs are in large numbers at various places and army worms are beginning to work. Both are liable to do much damage. A large yield was never better, many fields standing four feet high and filling nicely. Harvest will commence in two weeks. Corn is backward and and in some places on low lands is frosted, but this does not materially injure it. The acreage is much larger than ever before; an estimated increase of 22 per cent. Fruit is not injured, except in exposed localities. Grass is fine, so that all kinds of stock are doing well, many cattle running on the range being already in condition for market.

Kansas Crops.

TOPEKA, Ks., May 25.—The secretary of the state board of agriculture, places the acreage of winter wheat at one million and a half acres. The weather has been cool and wet, which is favorable to the plant.
